A Banana Tree Grows In Reidland!

A Banana Tree May Grow In Fulton During Celebration

How to get publicity without even trying!

That's the way it's going to be from now on. When a metropolitan newspaper reported recently that the twin cities were going to have a banana festival, without banana trees anywhere around, John McClintock of Reidland offered to help the banana festival association solve the problem. He told his story to Harry Bolser of the Louisville Courier-Journal and offered the group a real, live, growing banana tree.

But he added: "How to get the tree to Fulton is Fulton's problem."

At the moment it is a problem, but it won't be for long. An authority on the growing of bananas has been told of the situation and he's working on some method to transplant it here without damaging the growth. If it can be managed, appropriate planting ceremonies will be held in the city.

I may as well change the name of this column. That's all I'll be thinking and writing about until November 4 and long thereafter. And I suggest that you start doing the same.

Talk and plans for the Banana Festival have broken out all over. What started out to be a nice, pleasant, colorful festival has now taken on international aspects. If all the plans materialize that are "in the putting together stage" the American hemisphere won't easily forget our first annual festival.

There is some little apprehension around town that the program has gotten so big we may not be equal to the task of staging it. The thought reverts to the saying you've heard many times "we're big enough to do anything."

There are two things that could possibly hinder the ambitious plans now being made for the event. One is lack of cooperation. Every man, woman and child in the twin cities will have a job to do to make the festival a success. Knowing all of you as I do, those jobs will be performed with the greatest ability available.

The other thing is the lack of financial support. It is understandable that some people failed to contribute to the drive when first approached. A lot of folks didn't seem to realize what the undertaking was all about. Now that they know, the finance committee doesn't expect a turn-down anywhere. When you are called upon, how about making your contribution before the solicitor has time to say... banana!

Let's go Twin Cities! This is a great opportunity to have the world know, and long remember, that Fulton, Ky. and South Fulton, Tenn. are towns worth living in and doing business in.

Festival Financial, Civic Help Mounts; Group Plans First International Event

He Shall Return!

Ralph Lally, president of the National Banana Association has made a statement more famous than the one General McArthur made at Corregidor during World War II. That is, it's more famous to the twin cities where the banana festival will be staged.

Mr. Lally told a local delegation in New Orleans last Friday that when he made his first trip into Fulton as an employee of a banana company, he came in riding the caboose of a train.

A member of a New York public relations firm attending the meeting caught the statement and said quickly: "He shall return!" Yes, plans are in the making to have Mr. Lally's train stop a few miles outside of Fulton and have the famous visitor get right back on a caboose and ride into the city the same way he did when he wasn't quite so eminent.

Four representatives of the Twin Cities Banana Festival, Inc. went to New Orleans last Friday seeking help from high officials in the banana industry to assist in staging the first annual banana festival here from November 4-9. The group came back with the suggestion from the banana officials that the name of the association be changed to the International Banana Festival, as an indication of the support the twin cities will receive from the entire banana industry, American and Central American. Pledging financial, as well as professional help, Ralph Lally, president of the National Banana Association told the local delegation:

"The enthusiasm, energy and imagination shown by your communities has so impressed us that we are going to help you stage your festival with the idea that this will be an event by which we can promote invaluable goodwill between our country and all the Latin-American banana producing countries." R. Bruce Paschall, vice-president in charge of Marketing and Sales for the Standard Fruit and Steamship Company told the group that the State Department in Washington would be contacted for assistance in staging the festival. When it was suggested that perhaps a Central American Ambassador in Washington could attend the festival, Mr. Bruce replied:

"You'll get Ambassadors, I feel sure. What we're going to work on is getting officials from Latin-American countries to visit your cities."

Larry Metcalfe, director of public relations for the National Banana Association this week advised Nathan Wade, president of the local banana association that contacts had already been made with the State Department in Washington on behalf of the festival. Mr. Metcalfe will arrive in Fulton next week on the first of many visits he will make here to assist in coordinating the many activities of the festival.

The enthusiasm of the national banana association was transmitted to the Board of Directors of the Fulton-South Fulton Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting Monday. President of the local organization, Bill Scott said that it took less than a minute for the group to increase their pledge of financial assistance from $500 to $1500 to help finance the giant undertaking.

And the enthusiasm for the festival is permeating the entire twin city area. Firms and individuals who had previously refused financial assistance have now generously contributed and added: "If you need more, just call on us again!" The support is understandable.

When promoted and publicized properly, an estimated 25,000 to 40,000 persons will visit the twin cities during the five-day event. Motels, restaurants, retailers and many other establishments catering to the general public are gearing their operations to take care of the mammoth crowds that will come here beginning with the first event on November 4.

directing the Council Campaign will be Arthur Schofield of Paducah, as Public Relations Chairman and Bertie Pigue of Fulton as Audit Chairman. Special Gifts and General Solicitations Chairman for the Council-wide Campaigns will be named some time next week according to Judge Osborne.

The Council served 4,500 Cub Scouts and Explorers with its fun and adventure program last year, placing special emphasis on Fitness and Citizenship. There are 51 Boy Scout Troops, 46 Cub Scout Packs and 10 Explorer Posts in the Council. Mr. Bryant predicted that the Council will close the year 1963 with the greatest Boy membership in its history. More than 1100 adult members gave a year of volunteer service to the boys of the Council.

Campbell, Yarbrow Named To Head County Campaign

Sheriff Joe Campbell, of Fulton Route 4, was today named chairman of Fulton County for the democratic campaign in the November general election. Hugh Fly and Waudell Yarbrow were appointed co-chairmen. Sheriff Campbell was county chairman for Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt in the May primary and Fly and Yarbrow supported former Governor A. B. Chandler.

Announcement of the appointments was made in Louisville by Foster Ockerman, democratic state campaign chairman, and Mack Walters, state co-chairman.

In accepting this appointment Sheriff Campbell said, "I am firmly convinced that the Breathitt-Waterfield ticket will be good for Kentucky's interests."

"Ned Breathitt and Harry Lee Waterfield are both from the First District and it is very seldom that the two candidates for the state's highest offices are from the same district."

"I think every voter in this area should turn out and give Breathitt and Waterfield a big vote of confidence."

Breathitt and Waterfield are the party's nominees for governor and lieutenant governor.

"I think Ned Breathitt and Harry Lee Waterfield are well qualified for the offices they seek," Fly stated. "I have known Harry Lee Waterfield for a long time and am well acquainted with his qualifications. Ned Breathitt is a fine man and has presented a program that is good for Fulton County and the state."

"Ned Breathitt and Harry Lee Waterfield have the experience and the training to lead Kentucky to even greater progress," Yarbrow declared. "Every Democrat can unite behind these two excellent leaders because they have a platform that will help every segment of our population. It is a real privilege to represent Breathitt and Waterfield."

In commenting upon the appointments, Breathitt stated, "With men like Joe Campbell, Hugh Fly and Waudell Yarbrow leading the way, we can look forward to a

Yes, We Have Banana Sense; Students Learn

The grammar and junior high school students in Fulton and South Fulton Schools may never have heard of the song, "Yes, We Have No Bananas." The song was written and popular before the students were born.

But one thing is for sure. Between now and November 4, when the twin cities stage the first international banana festival, the students will know why Fulton is known as "The Banana Crossroads of America," how the fruit is grown, where it is grown, and why it is one of the most nutritious viands that can be consumed by the human body.

Superintendent of Fulton City Schools W. L. Holland and Kenneth Winston, principal of South Fulton School announced today that geography classes from the third through the eighth grades have begun a thorough study of the banana industry.

"The children are excited about the study," Mr. Holland told the News. "When all those officials of the banana industry come to the twin cities for the festival our students can peel off banana information with no hesitancy at all," he added.

Danny McGuire

Lucky Senators! Danny McGuire Is Senate Page

Congressman Robert "Fats" Everett hasn't a greater admirer anywhere in the world than Danny McGuire. Danny heard Everett speak at South Fulton School last year. Since then, this outstanding senior at South Fulton, has taken an avid interest in the Congressman and in politics.

Today Danny 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McGuire finds himself as high in the political picture as any fellow his age can get. Wednesday at noon Congressman Everett called Danny and told him that he had been appointed a page to serve in the United States Senate during the month of October. Danny will drive to Washington on Friday.

Popular in high school, Danny has a long list of accomplishments to his credit. He has been a delegate to Boys State, where he undoubtedly got his first taste of the interesting game of politics. He has been an honor roll student since he was a freshman. While in Washington he will receive private tutoring.

Such an honor couldn't come to a nicer fellow. And the United States Senators are lucky too!

BIG GAME

"Pep Pill" Investigation Leads To Calloway County

Recent rumors linking teenagers to the usage of so-called "Pep-Pills" in Marshall County schools has developed into a full-scale investigation.

Local authorities have been called into the investigation, along with the state and federal representatives.

The "Pep-Pills," known as diet pills have been made available to high school students in the Marshall and Calloway County area. It was learned that the "pills," as described by a Marshall County physician "... should be given by your local doctor and should be taken only under his direction. If abused, the medication can be very dangerous."

Information reached the Marshall Courier several weeks ago that the pills were being circulated in the county in huge quantities.

Following an investigation by local officials, the point of purchase was discovered to be the office of a Calloway county doctor living in the northern part of the county.

In an effort to combat the illegal selling of the "dangerous pills," different people were sent to make a purchase and reportedly have had no trouble buying any quantity. This immediately verified the alleged source and the Calloway county doctor was ordered to stop the sale of this type of drug item.

It was brought out in an interview with the Marshall Courier that "it is illegal to even have these pills in one's possession unless labeled and prescribed by a doctor" and "if taken as some teenagers have been reported as taking, they could become as any narcotic."

The hope has been expressed by local law officers that parents will become acutely aware of the reported existence of these pills and realize the extreme danger of not only taking them, but also of having them in their possession.

It had become increasingly apparent in the past few weeks that these pills could be bought whenever wanted and by any amount. This has resulted in a close watch of several teenagers in Marshall and Calloway counties. No charges have been made locally.

Here Is An Article, Written By A Young Lawyer, That Spells Out The Priceless Value Of Freedom

We believe that the following article by Carroll Hubbard, Jr., will be of interest to you.

It is refreshing for us to observe that the future of our country will be in the hands of young men of his ability and philosophy.

Carroll Hubbard, Jr., 26 year old attorney, has by his dedication and energy endeared himself to thousands of West Kentuckians. Mayfield and this part of the state are fortunate that he has chosen this area in which to live and work. He has been asked to contribute articles to area papers from time to time. These articles have been received well by readers.

Young Hubbard, is also in demand as a speaker in the many churches in the area. We are reprinting this article in the hope that you will keep it as a reminder of what our Constitution means; someday all of us may have to defend with our lives.

GOVERNMENT BY LAW: OUR U. S. CONSTITUTION By Carroll Hubbard, Jr., Mayfield Attorney

Today Americans throughout our country observe Constitution Day, since it was on September 17, 1787, that delegates to the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia appended their signatures to the supreme law of the land — the United States Constitution.

We instinctively prefer greater reliance upon the counter-balancing effect of many social, philosophic and economic forces than in arbitrary law. However, the creation of constitutional government is a most significant mark of the distrust of human beings in human nature. It signals a profound conviction, born of experience, that human beings vested with or without authority must be restrained or benefited by something more potent than their own discretion. Because man is very often slothful and unwilling to carry out his responsibilities and obligations except under compulsion, we needed in 1787 and need now in 1963 a Federal Constitution to insure man's obedience to, as well as his liberty under, the law.

There is nothing divine or supernatural about this fundamental law which establishes the framework of government, assigns the powers and duties of governmental agencies and establishes the relationship of the people to the government. It was not emblazoned by heavenly fire on tablets of stone, but it was fashioned by wise and free men who were willing to surrender a portion of their individual power for the greater good of the nation and it has been maintained in that same spirit by succeeding generations for 176 years.

The law of the Constitution of the United States is the only part of the total body of constitutional law found within the United States which prevails throughout the whole of it.

The Constitution's inestimable worth lies in its maintaining of government based on law instead of the changeable desires of the men who may be in power at a given moment. It is the rule of law which will insure that the best possible action is taken on behalf of people, while at the same time guaranteeing that their freedoms will never be usurped by a ruling elite.

Administrations come and go. Legislatures are transient. Today's court ruling may be overturned by next year's justices, but the basic document on which all of our government and guarantees of freedom are founded must be kept inviolate if we are to live under the rule of law and not of men. If changing times should make any portion of the basic document oppressive, then we may amend it—as we have done 23 times in our history.

The framers divided the powers of the central government and allocated them to three branches of the government; the Executive, the Legislative, and the Judicial. Finally, they set up safeguards—checks and balances—to insure that no branch would encroach on the powers intended for either of the others; and then they tied up the whole package with a forward-looking amendment procedure.

This oldest and most successful written Constitution in history has served our nation with remarkably little formal alteration during periods of rapid social changes. This is due to the wisdom of the editors who wrote a brief and flexible instrument, and to the policy of liberal construction which has characterized Supreme Court decisions. Our Constitution is, in practice, what the high court says it is.

The Constitution has not only served as an effective instrument of government and a guardian of human rights but also has come to be a revered symbol of how free men with diverse interests, and spread over a large area, can live together in freedom. Our Constitution through the years has been generally accepted and has received the support in society of a whole series of forces working against change and in favor of existing institutions.

Ours is a government of, by and for the people and as such must depend for its success on the intelligence, the morality, the justice and the interest of the people themselves. Without these no mere form of government, no machinery of laws, can give dignity to a political society.

We the people need to oppose the tendencies of both major political parties in recent years to let the federal government do "whatever needs to be done," regardless of Constitutional provisions to the contrary. We need to realize that "what needs to be done" at a given moment can only be the judgment of the men in power at the time, and that such judgment should never be allowed to prevail over the accumulated wisdom of the nation's long history.

The great service of constitutionalism is that it forces men to think, talk and yield to the common good before they act. Every constitution is both a grant of power and a catalog of limitations; and the best constitutions lay stress on the latter.

The framers of our Constitution wanted a national government more able to meet the country's needs than that under the Articles of Confederation. They had no intention of condemning the states to impotence and obscurity. On the contrary, they expected the states, with their deep historical roots and their broad and undefined reserved powers, to continue to be the principal theaters of governmental and political action. The power and prestige of the national government must not be permitted to blind us to the immense importance of the states. Neither the American people nor history will agree to anything else. After all, our nation is the United States of America.

The American constitutional system is by far the most efficient governmental organization for the protection of human rights and the essential principles of social and industrial progress known to human history. But no system of government, however near perfection, can in itself protect human rights and the essential principles of social progress.

The most perfect system of government or skillfully written constitution may be perverted and used destructively by shrewd politicians without changing the form of government or constitution, and without revealing to the masses that any perversion has been made. The destiny of America does not rest upon her man-made laws, her natural resources, her industrial production, or the multi-

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week the Louisville Journal commented upon the previous week's Battle of Chickamauga, a defeat for the Union Army of the Cumberland and its commander, Maj. Gen. William S. Rosecrans. "There is," it said, "unfortunately no room to doubt that the fine Army of the Cumberland has met with a very bloody repulse beyond Chattanooga. . . . We have for some time past had a painful anticipation of exactly what has occurred."

The writer then went on to cite various errors made in the moving about of Union troops in the weeks preceding the battle, asserting that it should have been apparent to all, as it was at the time to him and evidently to the Confederate high command, that the Federal forces were being so disposed as to make them vulnerable to attack and to almost certain defeat. He concluded that there had been "a sad lack of generalship in high official quarters."

In the next day's issue, the same newspaper carried a story which may be cited as typical of the total disregard of security precautions by the press, both North and South, during the Civil War. "We have received intelligence, which comes from a source whose reliability is vouched for," it said, and then went on to state, in Tuesday's paper, exactly where both right and left wings of the Union tude of comforts and luxuries that are always ours to enjoy, but rather upon those great moral and spiritual principles upon which this nation was founded—belief in the dignity and worth of every human being, in the priceless value of human freedom, in brotherhood under the Fatherhood of God, in those inalienable rights that have come to us not from the hand of some benevolent dictator but as the gift of our Creator when he fashioned man in His own likeness.

Army rested Monday night. Furthermore, it reported reinforcements were being sent to Rosecrans "from Gen. Grant, by way of Decatur, Ala." All the newspapers obviously felt perfectly free to disclose whatever they could learn about troop movements, plans for further operations, and all else that might be of interest to their readers—and to the enemy. Perhaps the fact that such information frequently was erroneous kept enemy intelligence from using it.

A dispatch from Clarksville, Tenn., said "Col. S. D. Bruce, who has formerly commanded this post, is absent on furlough at his home in Lexington, Ky., and, it is rumored here, is ordered at the expiration of his leave of absence to resume command of his own regiment, the Twentieth Kentucky." The story said Col. Bruce's departure was "much regretted by many citizens here whom he has conciliated by his conservative policy." The Twentieth Kentucky (Union) Infantry regiment at that time was in Louisville on provost duty.

This was the regiment which Lt. Col. Charles S. Hanson had surrendered to Confederate Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan after putting up a stubborn defense of the railroad station at Lebanon July 5. Since Gen. Morgan's first wife had been a sister of Col. Bruce, one may speculate that the Tennessee duty spared Col. Bruce the necessity of having to surrender to his former brother-in-law.

During the same week the Louisville Journal ran a story under this headline: "Unfortunate Occurrence — Three Citizens Shot by a Soldier."

TV Debates Will Give New Twist To Old Tradition Of Vote Getting

There will be a new twist to the old Kentucky tradition of personal-approach political campaigning when the gubernatorial nominees participate in televised debates this fall.

The televised sessions between Democrat Edward Breathitt, Jr., and Republican Louie Nunn will be the first TV debates in the state's gubernatorial-campaign history.

Kentucky historians believe that what the sophisticated TV sessions may lack in the color of state-stumping debates of the past, they may make up for in oratorical skill.

Fred Paxton, managing director of WPSD-TV, Paducah, which will be scene of the opening debate, said the debate is the most formal and most demanding test of a candidate's knowledge of the issues.

Western Kentucky viewers will see the debate on the Paducah station September 27. A second debate has been scheduled for October 9 over WHAS-TV, Louisville. Both debates will follow the format of an hour show.

Each nominee will be allowed 3 minutes for an opening statement. After that, he will have 2 minutes to discuss an issue, with his rival getting a minute for rebuttal.

Paxton and Jay Crouse, news director of WHAS, were prime movers in the organization for the debates.

Breathitt and Nunn will be following a television-debate trail blazed by presidential opponents John F. Kennedy and Richard Nixon in the 1960 election.

Paxton said it was the national interest in the "Great Debates of 1960" which brought television "of age in the political-campaign world."

The debates will be public-affairs news presentations and will not be sponsored.

"It is being done as a service to the voters," Paxton said. "Our primary goal is to give the voters an opportunity to see the candidates. While seeing the men on television is not exactly face to face, it is the next thing to it."

Paxton said the candidates will determine the subjects to be debated, and the moderator's function will be to regulate the time.

"The debates will put the candidates on their own," Paxton said. "The way the men present themselves will have as much to do with the image they project as the way they handle the subject matter."

Paxton said he expects the viewing rate to be one of the highest in the station's history. The program will be aired during prime time (7:30 to 8:30 p. m. E. S. T.).

As for the possibility of other hook-ups through the state on a debate-network basis, Paxton said he "will be glad to send it to anyone who might want it."

Kentucky's colorful political campaign history is filled with tales of great orators and polished speakers.

Hambleton Tapp, history professor at the University of Kentucky, recalls that the last major series of formal debates between gubernatorial foes came in 1896. The series resulted in the election the state's first Republican Governor W. O. Bradley.

Rodent Control Important To Health And Pocketbook

We talk of higher income, modern methods and conveniences, atomic submarines, space ships to the moon and Venus and other current problems of the day, yet here on our own little planet we are threatened with an enemy almost as elusive as the communist, the RODENT!

There is a rule of thumb, when one rat is seen, he has 6 to 9 buddies unseen. This is a serious threat, not only to us financially but to our health as well. Permit me to give you some income figures for Mr. Rat: An Ohio survey shows that the average farm studied had 40 total rodents, (this is where 1 to 6 were seen). The two Ohio counties had 4000 farms. This would make the over-all rat population 160,000. Now the research men claim that a rat will actually consume $7.00 in grain and other farm products and will also damage $3.00 additional beyond use for any purpose. That makes Mr. Rat a $10.00 a year varmint. With a little simple arithmetic we find that the rats cost the two Ohio counties 1.6 million dollars annually. This was estimated to represent 5 to 6 percent of their total farm income. . . DOWN THE RAT HOLE!

What would our community give for a factory or industry with a payroll of 1.6 million dollars annually. Would it be worth working for? Is it worth working to save?

One of the most important jobs we can do on the farm to help control rodents is the use of sanitary practices. This would include removing brush, high weeds and grass, junk piles and rubbish from it.

around grain and feed storage buildings where rats and mice could find food and shelter. Garbage and other waste from the family dwelling should be stored in a metal can with a tight lid until satisfactory disposal can be made.

Rodent killing may be done in several ways, however, we only have time to discuss the use of anti-coagulants for control. These chemicals reduce the clotting ability of the blood and later caused the death of rats and mice through internal bleeding. The major anti-coagulants used are Diphacinone, Fumarin, Pival, PMP, and Warfarin. These should all give the same results if used as directed. It is important to keep in mind that a single dose is not effective and must be eaten by rodents from 4 to 15 days. The bait should be placed in shallow tin cans along the walls of feed rooms, corn cribs, chicken houses and the like, with water near by. Rats will eat about 1 ounce of dry food daily. The bait should be kept clean, fresh, and dry. Leave it out until rodents no longer eat

Tourist Good Bill Decided By Congress

Washington.—House and Senate conferees agreed on legislation to extend for two years the $100 limit on duty-free goods brought back by United States tourists from abroad.

The main portion of the bills passed earlier by the two chambers was identical, but there was disagreement on treatment of the Virgin Islands and other possessions.

In Wednesday's compromise version the present $200 limit for goods from the Virgin Islands would be continued until March 1, 1964, only, unless Congress acted again to extend it. Other possessions, as at present, would not have the special limit.

Later the Senate passed the compromise and sent it to the House.

Expect great things from Chevrolet again-for '64

Today...Jet-smooth Luxury '64 CHEVROLET

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan—one of 15 Jet-smooth luxury Chevrolets.

Chevrolet was luxurious before, but you should see it now. With smart new styling, the '64 Chevrolet looks even longer (but isn't). There's even a whole new series this year—the Impala Super Sports—with front bucket seats as standard equipment. (The new Impalas and Bel Airs are more luxurious, too. Even the lowest priced Biscaynes have new foam-cushioned seats front and rear and are fully carpeted.) Of course, you expect more than just luxury from Chevrolet. A choice of 16 power teams, for instance—a 6 and six V8's up to 425 hp (optional at extra cost). And quieter transmissions. Jet-smooth ride with Full Coil suspension. Flush-and-dry rocker panels, Delcotron generator, self-adjusting brakes and other low-upkeep features. If you've ever wondered how luxurious Chevrolet could get—with all the extra-cost options there are to choose from—that seems to be entirely up to you.

Take your first look at the first CHEVELLE!

CHEVELLE! by Chevrolet

New Chevelle Malibu Super Sport Coupe—one of 11 models in three great series.

You've never seen anything like this totally new line of cars before. Chevelle is new in everything but Chevrolet quality. Chevelle is a good foot shorter than the big cars, so it parks easily. Yet the interior dimensions of its Body by Fisher provide a generous amount of head, leg and shoulder room. (Chevelle's trunk is big and roomy, too.) The ride is surprisingly smooth with a rugged coil spring at all four wheels. And not so surprisingly for Chevrolet, the new Chevelle offers a choice of engines ranging from an economical 120-hp 6 to a 220-hp V8 (optional at extra cost.) Choose the Chevelle you like best from the three series—the Malibu Super Sport, the Malibu and the 300 Series, eleven models in all—at your Chevrolet dealer's. (Like this good-looking Malibu Super Sport, maybe?)

Paducah's Market Place Is Restored; Opening Planned

The Market House in Paducah, standing on ground that has been a public market-place since General William Clark platted the town in 1827, is now becoming a cultural center for all of West Kentucky. Last March the Paducah Art Guild opened its gallery in the North section of the old building and since that time more than 5,000 visitors have attended art exhibitions there. A different exhibit is shown each month.

The Civic Beautification Board, appointed by the Mayor and City Commission of Paducah, is now spearheading a drive to establish two other projects in the Market House. The Woman's Club of Paducah will have a historical museum featuring river-lore and two of West Kentucky's famous sons, Irvin S. Cobb and Alben W. Barkley. The Junior Woman's Club will set up a Kentucky Crafts Center to market all kinds of handcraft items made by Kentuckians. Hand-weaving, pottery, metal work, woodwork and all forms of fine sewing will be handled in this new shop. There is a great revival of interest in hand-made articles of fine craftsmanship, and all workers in Kentucky will welcome this new outlet for their products.

The City of Paducah, which owns the Market House, is leasing the structure to the Civic Beautification Board who in turn sub-leases portions of the building to the other organizations who will actually operate the facilities. This restoration is being financed by a fun and fund-raising project known as the Market House Fair.

This Fair will be run from September 27 through October 1. A gigantic auction sale will be conducted every day throughout this period. More than 500 letters have been mailed to solicit auction material from former Kentuckians and celebrated personalities in the entertainment and political world. Mrs. Jaqueline Kennedy has donated an original steel engraving of the White House, which she autographed. Senator Thurston B. Morton has contributed a sculptured bust of former President Eisenhower. Congressman Frank Stubblefield has sent a very handsome book by one of the world's foremost photographers, Eliot Porter. Other contributions have been received from Gregory Peck, Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller, Bob Hope, Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson, Joe Bishop and many others. Antique collectors in the area are giving up some of their treasures to help swell the fund for restoring the Market House. Former Paducahan Frank Oehlschlaeger, who now operates one of Chicago's leading art galleries, has sent two original oil paintings and an 1833 map of the area. Businessmen are giving merchandise from their stores.

A concert by the Fort Knox Soldier Chorus, one of America's top vocal groups, will be another important event in the Market House Fair. This choral concert will be presented Friday, September 27, in the Jetton Auditorium on South Tenth Street in Paducah, at 8 p. m.

On Saturday, September 28, a downtown street parade will be held by the Market House sponsors.

A Hootenanny will be held on Saturday night, on the River Front in Paducah.

Sunday afternoon Sept. 29 at 3 p. m. will see a style show, held on the sidewalks of South Second Street.

A side-light attraction of Saturday and Sunday will be the opportunity for the automobile generation to take a real old-fashioned horse and buggy ride.

On Monday, Sept. 30 the Market House will resound to two card parties. A morning session, from 9:30 till 12 noon, will be completely open so that the players may play any game of their choice. A noon luncheon will be served from an attractive sandwich bar designed and built by Captain and Mrs. Tuttle Lockwood. An evening session for bridge players will also be held especially for lovers of Duplicate Bridge.

Tuesday, Oct. 1 from 11 a. m. until 1 p. m., hungry businessmen will be served a real old-fashioned meal of "Country Vittles."

Throughout the whole Market House Fair, the Paducah Art Guild Gallery is exhibiting a one-man show of paintings by one of Indiana's most prominent artists.

Wyatt Asks "Personal Favor" Of Voters To Elect Breathitt And Other Candidates

Democrat Wilson W. Wyatt, last week asked "a personal favor" of some 500 Kentuckians who served as county chairmen, co-chairmen, and women's chairmen in his 1962 campaign for United States senator.

It was "to join with me" in doing everything possible to assure the election of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edward T. "Ned" Breathitt and his entire ticket.

Lieutenant Governor Wyatt, who was defeated last year by incumbent Republican Senator Thurston B. Morton, personalized the same letter to each individual on his list.

He said that "as an extra impetus to the campaign, I wanted to get this personal message to every single county leader who carried the flag for me last year in the Senate race."

Written on Wyatt's stationery as Democratic notional committeeman from Kentucky, the letters said: "As an official in your county in my campaign for the Senate last year, you will always have my gratitude for the dedicated effort you contributed to the campaign and the Democratic Party in Kentucky."

"Again I am calling on you for a personal favor—to join with me in working for the best interests of our Commonwealth by doing everything possible to assure the election of Ned Breathitt for governor, Harry Lee Waterfield for lieutenant governor, and the entire Democratic ticket."

"As Democrats, and as Kentuckians, we can all be proud of Ned Breathitt and the ticket he heads. Not only is Ned a fine person and an excellent candidate—he will make Kentucky one of her finest governors."

"If I can be helpful in any way in your county in the campaign be sure to let me know..."

Employers Of Household Help Must Make Report

During the past year, almost 21,000 "delinquent" household employers were required to make back reports of wages they had paid to cleaning women, maids, and other household help after their employees, or ex-employees, applied for social security benefits.

Based on the average of $1000 in wages covered by these delinquent reports, the Internal Revenue Service will be collecting about $1,200,000 in back social security taxes from these 21,000 employers, plus interest and penalty, said Charles Whitaker, social security district manager.

Since the law holds the employer responsible for making the reports and paying the social security taxes due, the delinquent employer is liable for paying both the employer's and the employee's share of the back taxes. There is no time limit on collecting back taxes if no report was filed, Whitaker pointed out.

When the employer pays a household worker $50 cash or more during a calendar quarter, the reports and social security tax payments are due within one month after the end of that quarter. Reports of wages paid to household help in July, August, and September must be made on or before October 31, for example.

Household workers or their employers who would like to have more information should get in touch with the nearest social security district office at Paducah.

Questions And Answers For

VETERANS AFFAIRS

Questions and Answers

Q—Does the VA recommend converting term insurance to permanent insurance?

A—Both have their advantages. It would depend on the individual circumstances. Term insurance supplied maximum insurance for minimum cost. Thus, it might be ideal for a veteran with a large family of children. The cost of term insurance, however, increases as time goes on and becomes very expensive in late, middle or old age. It offers no loan value nor any permanent equity. Thus, after children are grown a veteran might wish to convert all or part of his term insurance to a lower cost policy with premiums that never change and the other advantages mentioned above.

Q—May the family—wife and children of a veteran—obtain medical care and hospital treatment at a VA hospital?

A—No. Only veterans themselves may be treated in the VA hospital system.

Q—When is the final date for any World War II veteran to get a GI loan?

A—The GI loan program comes to an end for all World War II veterans on July 25, 1967. For the great majority of World War II veterans it will end sooner than that—the calendar date reached by adding ten years to their date of discharge from the last period of active service plus an additional year for each three months of active service.

Q—I am 23 years old, single, and have a contract to teach in the school year 1963-64; am I eligible for a deferment?

A—If your selective service file is documented with a statement from the Board of Education with respect to your employment as a teacher, the local board will give serious consideration to granting an occupational deferment (Class II-A).

Q—I am classified I-D, under 26 years of age, and have no dependents. Can I volunteer for induction through my local board?

A—You may volunteer through your own local board. After you have been found acceptable by the Armed Forces Examining Station you will be processed for induction. Since you are now a member of the Armed Forces you may apply for active duty through your unit commander.

Q—My parents are disabled and I operate the farm for them. Is it possible for me to obtain a II-C classification?

A—The regulations still provide a classification for farm deferments, however, since there is a surplus of farm commodities it is unlikely that a local board will grant a farm deferment. If your parents are absolutely dependent on you the local board will give serious consideration of a classification of III-A (Hardship) provided the supporting information is in the file.

Q—I am a registrant who has been examined and found fully qualified for military service. I am nearing my 26th birthday, can I be inducted after becoming 26 years of age?

A—You may be inducted into the service after attaining the age of 26 provided your liability has been extended and your order to report for induction was issued before you reached age 26.

Q—Who actually pays veterans or dependents getting compensation or pension checks, the VA or Treasury Department?

A—Three Federal agencies join in the payment of compensation and pension checks. VA in its computer station at Hines, Illinois, certifies the amount of payment to be made. From this listing the Treasury Department issues the checks and turns them over in mass volume to the Post Office Department which delivers them.

Q—Cannot veterans who hold the Korean GI insurance, called "RS" insurance, collect a cash dividend if they turn it in for "W" insurance?

A—Yes, but only until September 13, 1963, when the dividend offer expires.

Q—How many widows of Civil War veterans, either side, still draw pensions from the Federal Government?

A—About 2,000.

Q—Am I automatically eligible for non-service-connected disability pension because I have become 65 years old?

A—The VA non-service-connected disability pension is not based on age but on the fact that the veteran has become totally and permanently disabled. However, your age may be a contributing factor. Since each case is decided individually, you should consult your nearest VA office.

Q—How can I get the medal the government gave to all World War II personnel at the end of the war?

A—Write to the branch of the service with which you served and give your dates of service as well as your identifying service number.

Q—My claim for death pension for our children was denied in 1959 because their father had no service-connected disability. Should I reapply?

A—Yes, reapply immediately. On July 1, 1960, the requirement was eliminated that a World War II or Korean veteran must have a service-connected disability at the time of death.

Q—I am a war veteran, but I have never had any dealings with the VA. Can I get a free physical exam from them?

A—Only if it is needed in connection with application for a benefit, such as hospitalization, or for service-connection of some condition.

Reduced Rates On Insurance To Save Million

Reduced rates on property damage insurance premiums will bring an estimated savings of over $1 million to Kentucky residents, State Insurance Commissioner J. Elliott Flanery has announced.

The rate reduction became effective September 16. Largest savings—ranging from 27 to 77 per cent—will go to farmowners in reduced rates for wood shingle roofs under the Farmowners Package Program. Also, a 20 per cent reduction will apply to farm barns and outbuildings, tobacco barns, brooder houses and connected structures, and silos, Flanery said.

A seven per cent reduction in over-all basic policy premiums for all forms of homeowners insurance also went into effect September 16. This change includes removal of charges for swimming and wading pools, and outboard motors of less than 25 horsepower.

Lovern Urges Laws To Govern Auto Inspection

State Public Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern has urged the 1964 General Assembly to enact an annual motor vehicle inspection law in Kentucky.

Speaking to an estimated 600 at the first 1963 Department of Public Safety Seminar in Louisville, September 19, he compared death rate figures in all states.

"We know that the death rate per 100 million vehicle miles is 4.64 in states with vehicle inspection. This compares with an average of 5.58 in states which do not have inspection programs," he said.

Asking, "Who wants inspection?" Lovern noted that "a public opinion poll, sponsored by the National Committee on Traffic Safety, showed that 97 per cent of the people interviewed favored periodic inspection of all motor vehicles."

Waterfield's Insurance Firm Cleared For New Stock Sale

Final approval has been given to a public stock sale by an investment firm headed by Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, the state reported today.

Gov. Bert Combs, in effect, delayed approval by ordering a further study into the proposed transaction. He said he wanted to be sure everything was in order.

In a joint statement, Banking Commissioner Hugh Rogers and Securities Director Pearl Runyon said:

"After a thorough review . . . we have firmly concluded that the requirements of Kentucky's securities law and the policies, rules and regulations of the division relating to registration of securities . . . have been met."

Kentucky Investors Inc. of Lexington asked permission to buy controlling interest in National Investors Life Insurance Co. of Lexington from an out-of-state group.

The transaction involves sale of 600,000 shares of common stock to the public at $5 a share.

Kentucky Investors has 625,000 shares of common stock bought by 25 organizers at $1 a share.

Most of the money from the new sale of stock would be used to buy 314,490 shares of common capital stock at $6.50 a share from National Investors.

National Investors, also headed by Waterfield, the Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, was formed in 1960 and at latest report had about $46 million in insurance business.

Combs' hesitation brought on two moves—the formation of an advisory committee to the banking commissioner and a written opinion from the attorney general's office.

Rogers and Miss Runyon quoted part of the committee finding: "As far as we could see, there has been a full disclosure here of the facts, favorable and unfavorable."

"The intangible elements involved in selection of an investment of this kind are, it seems to us, a matter for determination of the investor and not of this department."

"We therefore recommend admission of the application to registration."

The attorney general's office said it saw no reason why the stocks should not be registered for sale to the public.

Therefore, Rogers and Miss Runyon said, they are ordering approval.

Assistant Securities Director Dan Stafford affirmed the registration two weeks ago. That step reportedly would have suffered had the governor not asked for a further check.

OBION COUNTY FARM NEWS

Every hunter in Obion County has a personal stake in the Agricultural Conservation Program. So does every fisherman, and every family that likes to camp out or picnic in the woods. Here are some facts to prove it.

"Hunting, fishing and outdoor recreation are part of our American heritage. And each year we find that the demand for all forms of outdoor recreation are growing."

Today 85 percent of the wildlife in the United States is produced on privately owned farms and ranches. Rabbits, foxes, pheasants, quail and other upland game are part of the harvest on farms. And hunters know that farms and ranches with properly installed conservation measures afford the best hunting.

Small game finds concealment in grass, brush and shrubs along the edges of fields and woodlands. These places also are sources of food and shelter. Well-managed farms usually have adequate supplies of water.

Long continuous strips of alternate grass or hay and row crops or small grain provide more edges than rectangular fields covered with a single crop.

The Agricultural Conservation Program, which the ASC county committee administers locally, is designed to help farmers get established—and extend their accomplishments—in conservation farming, and in wildlife conservation. The ACP is a cost-sharing arrangement through which the public joins with farmers and ranchers to conserve and protect all the soil, water, woodland and wildlife resources.

Nationally the public shares about half the cost of carrying out approved conservation practices on farmland. Here in Obion County the rates for different practices vary.

This program is entirely voluntary. The farmer chooses the kind of practice he wants to carry out. The committee approves his request based on needs of the land and feasibility of the practice, and upon availability of funds in the current year's program. Farmers pay their half (or share) of the total cost in cash, labor, use of equipment, or conservation materials.

Some practices are approved primarily for the benefit of wildlife, food, water or cover. Many practices that are primarily for conservation of soil, water and woodland also provide food, water and cover for wildlife.

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

Before you know it, the twin cities will be lively and gay with visiting dignitaries, friends and relatives here to attend the First International Banana Festival from November 4, through November 9. The discriminating hostess will keep in tune with the times by serving dishes that feature that delicious viand, called the banana. There are so many dishes that can be "cooked up" with bananas that it is beyond us to suggest many of them. But one dish we think every hostess who plans to entertain a visiting dignitary should learn to perfect, but quick. It's called Banana Foster. We tasted that "out-of-this-world" dessert while on a recent trip to New Orleans and take it from us . . . it's always going to be a must in your household once you try it.

It's rather ridiculous to toss out such a tempting idea and then not give you the recipe, but that's the way the banana peels. We can say that Banana Foster is used as a topping for ice cream, preferably vanilla. The fruit is allowed to simmer in brown sugar in a chafing dish, until it is nice and brown and tantalizing looking. When the fruit is browned to the consistency you like, you all creme de banana, let it braise for a few seconds while you enjoy the incomparable flames and aroma that comes from the combination of bananas, sugar, liquor and perhaps another little ingredient or two. Before it cools, pour the concoction over vanilla ice cream and when you take the first bite you'll be wanting more. Bruce Paschall, director of Marketing and Sales for the Standard Fruit and Steamship Company, who was one of our hosts while in New Orleans said: "Banana Foster is the best dessert I've ever eaten. What I like most is that crazy mixed up gravy that makes when you put the ice cream and the bananas together." He is right as right can be. Bruce will be here for the Banana Festival. A dynamic, gregarious fellow, he will be sought after as the gent to keep things going while here. Ruby McDade, who went with us on the New Orleans

DURBIN WINS CITATION—Lt. Col. Paul J. Durbin of Fulton has been awarded the Certificate of Achievement for his temporary duty performance with the joint military advisory group in Thailand. He was sent to Bangkok to handle Thai and American legal matters during and after the massive SEATO exercise Thanarat in Thailand last June. He now is back on regular duty as deputy staff judge advocate at U. S. Army Pacific Headquarters, Fort Shafter, Hawaii. Above Durbin (right) receives certificate from Maj. Gen. Ernest F. Easterbrook, chief of the advisory group. (STORY ON PAGE ONE)

—Courtesy Paducah Sun-Democrat

Ruby has invited the children, grandchildren, mothers, wives and various and sundry other relatives of every official in the banana industry to visit with us. As you offer your home to entertain some of the visitors, you'd better let them know if you have nurseries, baby beds, wheel chairs, or motor scooters.

Ruby also offered every home in Fulton for coffee-making by the guests themselves at any time of the night or day. So be sure to stock up on cream, sugar, coffee and plenty of bananas for the five big days here in November. Ruby told them every front and back door to every home in the twin cities will be left wide open during the entire festival. That's all right. But be sure your home is protected by having plenty of bananas around the house.

Speaking of New Orleans reminds us that we didn't know that Suzie and Bob Binford have moved back to that city after having lived in Birmingham for several years. The Binfords love that great, big, old international city, as does everybody. We imagine that the many friends the family made there were glad to see them return, too. Active in church, civic and social activities everywhere they go, the Binford energy and enthusiasm will be welcomed with open arms by their friends and neighbors.

Banana festivaling kept us from telling you about a luncheon we enjoyed recently at the Park Terrace when Cordelia Fields entertained in honor of her sister-in-law Linda Fields from California. We particularly enjoyed getting first hand information about Linda's fine son who is in Washington, D. C., serving as a Senate page. There aren't many young fellows in these here United States that get such an opportunity so we're mighty glad to know of one young man who did get same. Well travelled and immensely interesting, Linda knows a lot of things about a lot of things. She's one of the few people we've known who could tell you right off the time of day in Hong Kong. Not that we had to catch a bus there or anything, but it intrigues us to know when people are sleeping while we're up and at 'em.

Rita Thompson, a Fulton High graduate in the 1963 class, was awarded first place in the wool suit class in the 4-H dress revue held at the Mid-South Fair on September 21. Rita is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson.

This is "I'm a Happy Grandparent Week".

Star performers in the production include such lovable youngsters as Little Irene and Matt DeBoor, III. Jane and Matt, with their little stars are here from Lexington visiting in the home of proud grandparents Irene and Bob White.

And then there's little Jack Thorpe, who with his parents are visiting proud grandmother Mrs. Clarice Thorpe. It would be a monumental task to tell you all the brilliant things these youngsters do and say . . . but we haven't the space, as the families well know.

Here's a good one on C. D. Jones. Out at our place the other day, we were talking about a mutual friend, with whom he has been associated. When asked the friend's name he replied: "I could have told you right off if I hadn't taken that Dale Carnegie course. Now, I try to speak correctly and I can't remember a thing about how I used to talk, or the people I knew before." And that's a true story from him.

Elizabeth Caldwell is back from the only kind of a trip that California offers . . . and that's wonderful. Driving out to the West Coast with her sister Lillian Blagg, the twosomes had an enjoyable visit en route with good friends Mrs. John Stewart, Mrs. Curtis Ledford and Mrs. Floyd Irby in Shawnee, Oklahoma.

While on her visit with her family (Jack Snow and family, Lynn and Ruth Askew and family) Elizabeth had a pleasant visit with Glynn and Kay Weatherspoon who live in Hidden Hills. Elizabeth saw America's most beautiful sights along the way. She won't soon forget the incomparable beauty and accomplishment of Boulder Dam. It's no wonder . . . that is a sight to behold.

Fifty seven persons attended the Lochridge family reunion at the City Park in Fulton on September 15, which honored Mr. and Mrs. Dines Lochridge Ridgeway of Detroit.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. John Lochridge, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carney, Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNatt, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Carney, Mr. and Mrs. Jones Dickerson, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Darnell and Kathy, Mr. and Mrs. Heron Grissom, Linda, Sandra and Buddy, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Grissom, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Grissom, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Reed, Sam and Mike, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Brundige, Mr. and Mrs. Dines Ridgeway, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ridgeway, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Crittendon, Mr. and Mrs. Boots Garner and Bob, Mrs. Gilliam Harrison and Ricky, Jean Griffith, Eula Nelson, Mamy Turbeville, Beverly Grissom, Lucille Rafferty, Lorene Parker, Gary Parker, Marie Taylor, Marion and Neva Smith, Butch Strickland, Willie Grissom, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hastings and Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Meacham and Mark.

The September meeting of the Victory Homemakers Club was held in the home of Mrs. Fred Collier with sixteen present. Mrs. Jimmy Lawrence and Mrs. Harold Williams gave the lesson on new style trends and materials for fall and winter.

An interesting contest was in charge of Mrs. Harry Owens about the counties of Kentucky, after which Mrs. Fred Collier led the group in singing.

The business session was conducted by the President, Mrs.

Ernest Jenkins, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Zoma Moss.

Eleven members and four visitors attended the meeting of the Central Homemakers in the home of Mrs. W. L. Jonakin.

According to Mrs. R. T. Bodiker and Mrs. L. E. Kilzer, "sportive" is the latest word in fashion. Fashions in knits, jerseys, corduroys and cottons from The Clarice Shop and Tiny Toggery were shown to the group. It was noted that boots of every description are extremely ly good this year, even for evening wear. Mrs. Lyle Shuck was voted by the group as the lady with the best posture.

Lawmaker Wants Inscription On Hallowed Walls

Washington, — Representative Robert T. Ashmore introduced a bill to put the inscription "In God We Trust" above the bench in the United States Supreme Court.

His bill would provide that the inscription be in appropriate gold lettering, centered on the marble portion of the frieze immediately above the chair of the chief justice.

Ashmore (D., S. C.) said: "These simple words are indicative of the faith of the overwhelming majority of the people of our great nation. I cannot see how any member of Congress, or anyone else, can object to such a profound and reverent truth." His resolution follows the June 17 ruling of the Supreme Court that Bible-reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer, as required classroom exercises in public schools, are unconstitutional.

Tetanus Deaths Unnecessary, Says AMA Health Official

Despite the outpouring of new "wonder" drugs, man's ancient enemy, tetanus, has not yet succumbed to a cure.

Even so, death from tetanus, or "lockjaw" as it is commonly called, is "almost entirely unnecessary," says Raymond L. White, M.D., Director of Environmental Medicine for the American Medical Association.

"As a disease, tetanus is completely preventable," Dr. White noted. "The only reason it persists is that people fail to get immunized, or fail to maintain their immunity. Out of sheer neglect, three-fourths of the people don't have the protection they need."

"If it weren't for medicine's continual concern over the possibility of tetanus—if practically every time a physician saw a wound he didn't take precautions against tetanus—the disease would rank much higher among human killers."

Tetanus is caused by a deadly poison emitted by certain bacteria which contaminate certain types of wounds—especially puncture wounds, or wounds with imbedded dirt.

The bacteria itself cannot survive long enough in the open air to infect wounds. But its seeds or spores can.

Tetanus spores are usually produced by bacteria growing within the air-free intestinal tracts of mammals, including man, and reach the ground in animal manure. Within the intestines, bacteria cause no harm to their host, other than to serve as factories for the production of spores.

Once on the ground the spores, which are unaffected by air, and are borne great distances on the wind, can survive for as long as 11 years. Besides cultivated land, they are commonly found in household dust and the grime of city streets.

Puncture wounds are a common cause of tetanus.

Some have even been detected in hospital operating rooms—tracked in on street shoes.

The spores in some sections of the country are nearly as common as dirt, and await only the right kind of wound to start their chain of infection.

Because of its peculiar nature, tetanus has never been a mass killer like some infectious diseases. It is, however, a vicious enemy, killing 60 per cent of those it strikes.

Development of immunity against tetanus, says Dr. White, requires a series of inoculations —three injections four weeks apart, followed within six to twelve months by a booster dose. To maintain this protection, additional booster shots are necessary every four years.

"Protection," he said, "should begin early in life—one to two months after birth—for the scrapes and falls of childhood offer tetanus many opportunities."

"But adults need protection too. With the new emphasis on outdoor living, with accidents on the increase and with the spore of tetanus in the dust and dirt all about us, we can only look forward to an increase in this deadly disease unless we make better use of our good sense, get immunized and keep immunized."

"Stars In My Crown" Makes Plans For '64; Officers Re-Elected As Good Season Ends

"Stars In My Crown," an inspiring drama which became an inspiration to some people who wanted to build West Kentucky's name as a tourist favorite, will be presented again next year.

It will be, that is, if West Kentuckians support it as they did this first year.

"We finished the season in the black for only one reason," said Smith Broadbent Jr. of Cadiz, one of the project's leaders. "This was because our people who are interested in building the tourist trade underwrote our early expenses. This must be done again."

Broadbent explained that a surplus of $11,302.17 shown at the end of the maiden season for the story about Alben W. Barkley and this area's struggle with the rivers won't get the show started on a new season.

He pointed out, however, that outdoor drama is generally recognized as a tourist attraction instead of a money-maker and that it must be supported the way picnic areas, beaches, park grounds and other tourist lures are supported.

But, he said, some support must come from private sources instead of the "public coffers."

Besides deciding to go ahead with "Stars In My Crown" another year, trustees of the West Kentucky Productions Association, a non-profit sponsor of the drama, also reelected Max Hurt of Kirtsey president of the group.

Mrs. Paul Westpheling of Fulton, first vice president, and Bill Powell of Paducah, second vice president, also were reelected. First they had to be reelected to the board and they were, unanimously, for terms of three years.

The fund campaign this year will be for $20,000 to $25,000. The plan hasn't been decided upon.

Officials of the organization set completion of the theater as one of the 1964 goals. Rest rooms, offices, a rain shelter and several other major projects must be carried out, said Hurt, before the amphitheater can be termed "completed."

"Stars In My Crown" is a project aimed at bolstering this area's tourist trade.

Tom Brown, president of Kentucky Vacation Land Inc., said at the annual meeting of the productions association, that the drama had shown good results.

He said there was a distinct pickup in motel and other tourist business during the run of the show.

John Perryman, owner of a gift shop and antique business at Aurora who also is a trustee of the association, said the area had its best July and August in history, and he credited the showing to "Stars In My Crown."

Hurt said in a speech to those at the annual meeting that "we'll depend next year, as we did this year, on our people." He said good support means "we'll go first class."

West Fulton PTA Holds First Meeting of Year

The first meeting of the year for the West Fulton PTA was held on September 19 in the farm room at the school. Carrying out the membership theme small pendants were pinned on each person present.

A group of eight girls sang "Climb Every Mountain" directed by Mandel Brown.

Mrs. Win Whitel, program leader, introduced Lawrence Holland, superintendent of the Fulton City School, who in turn introduced the new faculty members and student teachers. Mrs. Leonard Allen explained in-service training for teachers.

The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. William O. Beard. Room count was taken and the award was won by Mrs. Wilson's room.

The following recommendations from the executive board were read and accepted: 1. That awards of $2.50 for 100 percent membership, $5.00 for 200 percent membership and $10.00 for room count be given. 2. That Dad's Night be changed from Thursday, October 17 to Tuesday October 15. 3. That subscriptions to National Parent Teacher Magazine be given to the two school libraries.

The breakfast will be served in the basement of the First Methodist Church in Fulton.

CAMPBELL—

A member of the Methodist Church, Sheriff Campbell is a graduate of Cayce High School. He is a veteran of two years service in the United States Army.

One of the most popular officials ever to serve in Fulton County, the 37 year old Sheriff won his first political office in 1961 when he defeated two former sheriffs for the office of sheriff of Fulton County. He is a member of the Young Men's Business Club, the Hickman Chamber of Commerce and the Fulton County Farm Bureau.

He and his wife, Patsy, are the parents of three children. Owner and operator of the Derby Restaurant and Gift Shop in Fulton, Fly served as city chairman in the campaign of former Governor A. B. Chandler in the May primary. He also served as chairman for Wilson W. Wyatt in his unsuccessful campaign for the United States Senate.

Fly is a graduate of Jackson, Tennessee high school. He is a veteran of World War II, having served with the United States army in New Guinea, Luzon and Leyte in the South Pacific theatre of operations.

He is a member of the Fulton Chamber of Commerce, the Shrine and the Masonic Order.

A Baptist, Fly and his wife, Anne, are the parents of two children.

A well known Hickman business man, Yarbrow is a graduate of Western High School in Fulton County. He is a past president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the current president of the Hickman Chamber of Commerce. He and his wife, Velva, have two children.

BANANA TREE—

(Continued from Page One) it in a greenhouse on Lake Street." At the side of McClintock's carport there is a healthy bunch of bananas, each about 6 inches long, on a 7-foot banana tree. McClintock says he plans to pick the fruit before the first frost.

The tree is two years old and a sprout McClintock and his wife brought home from Florida. They nursed the tree along in a planter in the attic last winter and set it out last spring. The tree showed unusual growth this summer presumably because of the prolonged high temperatures and humidity in this section.

McClintock said he was amused by the headline on a Courier-Journal news report from Fulton last Sunday which said "Banana Trees They Do Not Have, But A Banana Festival They Do."

It was a story about plans for Fulton's first annual banana festival in November. The only connection between Fulton and bananas is that rail shipments of bananas from New Orleans to northern markets are side-tracked in Fulton for reicing.

HOW TO LEND

Officials of both local banks attended a conference in Louisville this week, sponsored by the Kentucky Bankers Association. Representing the Fulton Bank was Harold Henderson; Kenneth Crews represented City National Bank.

Combs To Dedicate Western Kentucky Turnpike Oct. 18

The Western Kentucky Parkway, Kentucky's newest and longest turnpike, will be dedicated October 18 by Governor Bert T. Combs and other state officials—exactly two years from the day they turned the first spadeful of dirt on the project.

The ceremony will be held near Leitchfield at the interchange of Ky. Highway 259, according to a joint announcement by Gov. Combs, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward and the Kentucky Turnpike Authority. This is where ground was broken for the 127-mile, Elizabethtown to Princeton route. Program arrangements will be announced in about a week.

Approximately two-thirds of the new highway will be ready for traffic by dedication time, with the section from near Nortonville to Princeton scheduled for completion before the first of the year, according to Commissioner Ward.

"We cannot have the entire 127 miles open to traffic by Oct. 28," Ward said, "but we feel an obligation to the motoring public to dedicate and open to traffic usable portions of the Parkway as soon as possible." "This also will allow thousands of Kentuckians to use the road and attend a ceremony before extremely bad weather.

Toll facilities at the Leitchfield and Central City interchanges should be finished by Nov. 1 and the toll plaza at Dawson Springs should be ready by Nov. 15, Ward announced. Most of the mainline paving is completed and contractors now are working on shoulders, signing, guardrails, seeding, lighting and toll plazas.

"The highway is a monument to the people of Kentucky," said Gov. Combs. "It is fulfillment of their faith in the sound business theory of building modern facilities now and letting others help pay for them as they are used and enjoyed."

"The Western Kentucky Parkway provides a vital link in Kentucky's overall transportation system and from it the state will undoubtedly enjoy a increase in every form of economic measurement," Combs said.

The highway roughly parallels US 62, an old, two-lane highway, and connects with the Kentucky Turnpike at Elizabethtown. It shortens the distance between Elizabethtown and Princeton by some 15 miles and will cut driving time considerably. Built to high design standards, it is a divided, four-lane facility with limited access. Its construction was financed from a $118,000,000 revenue bond issue. There are 84 bridges and overpasses along the route, the longest of which is the bridge across the Green River near Rockport.

SISTER OF MRS. MADDOX DIES

Mrs. C. H. Cashon, of Jackson, Tenn., sister of Mrs. J. H. Maddox of Fulton, died in the Madison County Hospital on September 20. Mr. and Mrs. Maddox and Mrs. C. D. Edwards attended the funeral.
